20200427 Local Area Coordination Network – Weathering the storm 2.

Nick Sinclair in conversation with Joe Micheli and Jennie Cox from City of York Local Area Coordination. Joe and Jennie chat about Jennie's recent paper 'It's all about People and Relationships...' which looks at how being an asset based area has helped organisations and communities across York come together through the Coronavirus pandemic.

“Those existing relationships and partnerships have become even more important because as information's been changing everyday we've been needing to get that new information out to people so that they can help themselves, help their families, friends and know what's going on and feel reassured...so having those existing networks, when I reflect, I don't know how we would've got all that information out there in the way that we have”

20200424 Social Care Future - The Local Area Coordinator's Story.

Martin Routledge in conversation with Neil Woodhead, Manager of the Derby City Local Area Coordination programme.

Neil shares learning, important universal themes and ways of working and increasing individual, family, community and system outcomes through Local Area Coordination. Local Area Coordination is now an embedded contributor to a transforming system, deeply alongside and nurturing mutual support in local communities during Covid 19 and key to recovery, rebuilding and future sustainability.

20200415 Local Area Coordination Network – Weathering the storm 1.

Nick Sinclair and Clenton Farquharson in conversation with Ralph Broad. The Local Area Coordination journey in England, Wales and beyond. “We follow Ralph on his journey of establishing Local Area Coordination in the UK and hear how Local Area Coordination principles are fundamental to building resilient communities around the world both during (and after) the current crisis.

“At a time of national crisis, where Local Area Coordination is being nurtured and maintained and with strong leadership supporting it, it's been central to the response to Covid in the community. There's something unique that Local Area Coordination is doing alongside a whole range of other beautiful stuff...”
